Faubus Hints at Compromise on School Opening

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who closed Little Rock's four high schools against integration, said yesterday he would like to see them open immediately on some basis acceptable to opposing factions in the desegregation dispute.

He called such a development "possible but not probable."

The governor indicated he might be willing to accept some integration to get the schools operating again. They were closed by his proclamation last September.

Faubus said little hope of an agreement in the controversy, but said it was "possible that all could reach an understanding." He presumably meant those forces seeking school integration and those against it.

The governor, at a news conference, emphasized that his attitude in the federal-state deadlock had not changed. He contends in effect that the government violated states' rights by forcibly integrating Central High School in September, 1957.

Faubus blamed the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People for failure to realize that the school deadlock cannot be settled without a compromise.

"All both sides recognize there must be some work done toward a compromise," the governor said. Continued on Page Two

Jury Selected in Pine Bluff Trial

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Selection of a jury started today for the second trial of 22-year-old Frank Andrew Payne on a charge of first degree murder.

Two state witnesses were missing.

Electricity Direct From A Power Disclosed

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A way has been discovered to produce electricity directly from atomic power, a University of Michigan scientist said today.

Robert W. Pidd, Michigan professor of physics, said the development already has been tested at Los Alamos, N. M.

Pidd predicted the development also would pave the way for interplanetary space travel and would power satellites.

The process does away with boilers, turbines, gas conditions and generators now used in both conventional and atomic electric plants.

Electric power under the process is produced from a uranium carbide source surrounded by a plasma of electrified gas made from cesium, a metal.

Special Vote June 9 to Pick a Director

In session last night Hope City Directors adopted a resolution calling for a special election June 9 to select director to replace Herbert Burns who resigned.

The Mayor also issued a proclamation calling for the election.

In other action the group authorized the Mayor to execute a lease with Missouri Pacific regarding the rail crossing of a high-voltage electrical line.

Passed a resolution authorizing execution of a lease to the Federal Government on land for a rest station for transient workers, the location on Highway 87, west about one-quarter mile from Hope city limits.

Appointed Tom Hays, Dale Jones, Bill Caldwell, Frank McElroy and Martin Pool as members of the City Housing Authority board and terminated a mineral lease on airport property.

Minstrel Will Show Ten Specialty Acts

Ten specialty acts plus singers, dancers, black-face comedians make up a cast of nearly 60 persons who will appear on the Hope High School stage Thursday and Friday nights for the 16th annual Hope Kiwanis Club Minstrel.

Proceeds from this year's show timed at one hour and 45 minutes from the curtain rise at 8 p. m., will again go to the Hope Youth program. Over the past 11 years the civic club has provided nearly $17,000 to the youth program.

Cast in specialty acts are: "Little Brown Girls" Pam Parsons, Mary Ann Beatty, Sharon Roberts, Jeanie Love.

"Lambie" Cherry Myers, "Lubercay" Tom Purvis, "River Slay Way From My Door" Maxine White.

"Roses From the South" Maids of Note directed by Mrs. B. C. Hyatt.

"Do I Worry" Guy Grigg, "Stairway to Success" Amanda Nelms, Demetria Eaton, pupils of Mrs. Fran Nelms.

"Some Enchanted Evening" Tena Pilkinton, "Tea for two cha cha" Caryll and Cherry Myers, "Sammy Sings" Sammy Strong.

FAA Poultry Team Wins Honors

HOPE FFA POULTRY judging team placed first at Texarkana College contest last weekend, winning over 23 other teams. Left to right: Jerry Chambers, Donald Gunter and Marshall McCorkle made up the team and Marshall was the high individual. Friday Agriculture director Burgess Garrett will take five teams to the district contest at Magnolia.

Divorcee Tells Her Story in Murder Trial

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mimie B. (Connie) Nicholas calmly went on the witness stand shortly before noon today to tell her story of the fatal shooting of her wealthy, married lover.

Worn by 15 days in court for her murder trial, the pert, little brunette showed no emotion as she started her testimony. Less than two hours after the defense opened its case.

"Let's just say I'm wearing down—I'm tired," the 44-year-old divorcee told newsmen as the defense opened its case.

Over state objections, Phil Clifford, one of the reporters who interviewed Mrs. Nicholas two days after the shooting, testified her right eye "appeared to have been struck."

The defense contends Forrest Teel was shot in a violent struggle with his mistress of 15 years. The state contends she shot Teel deliberately because he had cast her off for a younger woman.

Clifford said Mrs. Nicholas told him: "I only meant to scare him. You don't shoot the man you love."

Mrs. Mary Popchell, a general hospital nurse, testified Mrs. Nicholas "appeared to be confused" Aug. 2, the day she came out of a coma from swallowing 75 sleeping capsules. That was the day police and newsmen interviewed her.

When she was asked whether she contemplated another suicide attempt, Clifford said she replied, "I won't have the chance, unfortunately."

Clifford said Mrs. Nicholas reported she followed Teel several times after learning that he was seeing Laura Mowrer, then 29.

"He really raised hell with me for following him," Clifford quoted Mrs. Nicholas as saying. "He never cheated on me, in all these years, before."

Clifford said Mrs. Nicholas said she had been sure Teel eventually would return to her.

President Off for Vacation in Georgia

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower flew off today for a golfing vacation in Augusta, Ga. The President and Mrs. Eisenhower took off in the presidential plane Columbine III at 10:51 a. m.

After he boarded the plane, Eisenhower gave an affectionate pat to a painting of a columbine—Colorado's state flower—at the side of the entrance door.

Pair in $12,000 Robbery on Trial

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Trial of one of two men charged in a $12,000 North Little Rock robbery was set for June 17 in Pulaski Circuit Court yesterday.

The defendant, John Francis Kinney, 47, of St. Louis, surrendered unexpectedly at Little Rock last November after fighting his efforts to extradite him from Missouri. He has pleaded innocent and is free on $15,000 bond.

Kinney and Charles Jefferson Hollis, 33, of East St. Louis, Ill., are charged with robbing William B. Ferguson at his home in Des Moines, Iowa, on August 9, 1957. Hollis has pleaded guilty and is being held in the Missouri State Penitentiary.

Adenauer Seeks Presidency, May End His Career

BOON, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today agreed to run for the presidency of West Germany, a decision that means his retirement from active politics.

The surprising decision was announced by Eugene Gerschlager, president of the Bundestag or lower house of Parliament, at a news conference.

Gerschlager said the ruling Christian Democrats, who nominated Adenauer, have yet to discuss their choice as Adenauer's successor as chancellor.

The post of president in West Germany is largely a ceremonial one.

Adenauer, 83, the only government chief postwar Germany has had, himself presided at a meeting of a special committee set up by the party to choose a presidential candidate.

The decision means that Adenauer will retire from active politics next July, when the second term of President Theodor Heuss expires. Heuss is ineligible to run again.

Ludwig Erhard, the economics minister, is considered the most likely choice of the Christian Democrats to succeed to the chancellorship.

The sudden turn of events caught West Germany by surprise. It was known that Adenauer had urged Erhard to accept the presidential nomination while the Chancellor prepared for the federal elections in 1961.

Adenauer is serving his third term as chancellor and had been expected to seek a fourth.

Biological War Waged on Insects

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

BOSTON, Mass. (AP) — Scientists are launching biological warfare—spreading a disease to kill or sicken the enemy.

The enemy is some costly insects, not human beings.

A new biological warfare weapon aimed at insects was described today to the American Chemical Society by Robert Fisher of Biochem Corp., Wasco, Calif., and Lawrence Rosner of Rosner-Hixon Laboratories, Chicago.

This insect-killer is made of living spores from germs known as Bacillus thuringiensis. It's designed to give leaf-eating insects a quick, fatal disease if they eat enough of the spores sprayed on plant leaves.

Fisher and Rosner said the insecticide—tradename Thuricide—had passed tests showing it is not harmful or toxic to humans, other animals and plants.

The insecticide now is being tested against some insects damaging a number of plants, including alfalfa, cabbage, celery, cotton, peas, beans, corn, tomatoes, and tobacco.

In another report, two Indianapolis chemists described a new fast-acting insecticide, methoxyhexatin, which they said would be most valuable during brief operations.

It produces quick, brief anesthesia, said Drs. Robert E. McMahon and Wilbur J. Doran of Lilly Research Laboratories.

A barbiturate, methoxyhexatin, on two to five times as potent, on weight basis, as other short-acting barbiturates and is effective only about half as long, McMahon said. Still under test, it has been used on more than 10,000 patients so far.

Reserve Unit Changed to Terminal Co.

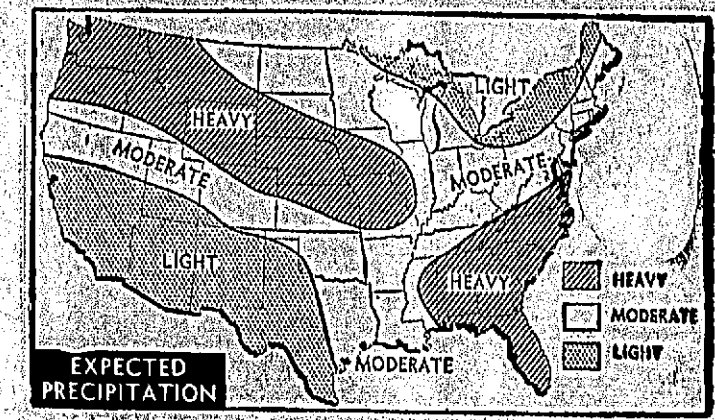

Effective April 1, the U. S. Army Reserve unit located in Hope, known as the 48th Engr. Co. (Water Supply) will be terminated.

Replacing the 48th is the 398th Transportation Terminal Service Co. The personnel remains the same, with Capt. James E. Orr of Arkadelphia, the Commanding Officer. Meeting time is 7:30 p. m. each Thursday.

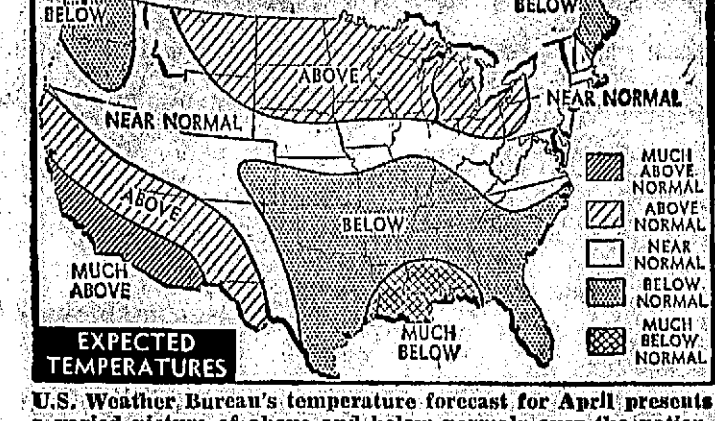

There are at the present time vacancies for prior service personnel and also an opportunity for non-prior service men to fulfill their military obligation by serving with this organization.

The main function and training mission will be unloading of supply ships at sea ports. The 398th will take its summer training at Camp Lee Roy Johnson, New Orleans, Louisiana, from August 9 to 23, 1959.

Unemployment Drops During March While Employment Increases

Rainfall during April is expected to be above normal in the Northwest and Southeast, below normal elsewhere.

Both Numbers Best in U. S. in Eight Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment declined 387,000 in March to 4,362,000. Employment jumped by 1,100,000 to 63,828,000.

The government, in reporting this today, said the rise in employment and drop in unemployment were both about twice the amount reasonably expected for the month.

It was the biggest February-to-March drop in unemployment since 1950. The employment rise for the month was the biggest since 1951.

Seymour Wolfson, head of the Labor Department's Employment Statistics Bureau, told a news conference that while the improvement was partly seasonal, the job picture definitely shows substantial signs of repair from depression damage.

The seasonally adjusted ratio of unemployment to the total work force declined from 6.1 per cent in February to 5.9 per cent in March.

Wolfson's holding a news conference to release the report was an unprecedented thing.

Ordinarily, the regular monthly job reports of the Commerce and Labor Departments have simply been handed to newsmen in printed releases.

The unusual procedure pointed up the administration's gratification over the developments.

"Administration" officials, from President Eisenhower, Dept. of Labor Secretary Louis Glavin, to the lowest such gratifying improvement.

Compared with last year's employment in 1958, 1,517,000 and unemployment is down 835,000.

Weekly earnings of factory production workers rose to a record of $88.02 in March. This reflected an increase in the work week to an average of 40.1 hours, plus an average 1-cent increase in hourly pay.

Wolfson said that over a third of all factory workers in the nation, concentrated in seven major manufacturing industries, groups now have earnings averaging more than $100 a week. About a tenth of this is overtime pay.

The report said the rise in employment was larger than the drop in unemployment because many of the seasonal workers added in March were housewives, students and others who had previously not been looking for work and were not counted as unemployed.

Secretary of Commerce Lewis Strauss said the changes reflected in the job report would be "actually" by the best improvement figures between February and March in years.

To top that off, Strauss said other government data, some of it still to be released, shows the national economy is whirling along at its greatest pace ever in history.

The commerce secretary said that with national income at a peak and prices remaining stable, purchasing power money was high; the value of all goods and services, or gross national product, is also at a record.

In fact, said Strauss, "The signs indicate that the current spring vigor in the economy should increase in the coming months."

Strauss predicted the new job data would show a more than seasonal drop in unemployment and a substantial rise in employment. A drop in the rate of 300,000 would be the best March improvement since 1952, and one of 325,000 the best since 1950.

Secretary of Labor James H. Mitchell went to the White House Monday to fill in Eisenhower personally on the good news. Afterward press secretary James G. Hagerly said the President promised today's job report would be "gratifying and of great interest to all Americans."

MOP Assets and Liabilities Listed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Assets and total liabilities of $903,886,094 were listed by Missouri Pacific Lines in an annual report filed yesterday with the Arkansas Public Service Commission.

The railroad's income in Arkansas last year was $85,959,501, the report said, with $57,062,817 earned from freight service and $128,208 from passenger service.

Pulpwood was the major product carried by Mopac in the state last year, with 14,958 carloads totaling 708,508 tons hauled, the report said.

Bingen RCI Supper Set for Thursday

Plans have been completed for the R.C.I. Pancake Supper to be held Thursday evening, April 9th, from 7 until 9 o'clock at the Community Building in Bingen.

In addition to all of the pancakes you can eat for fifty (50) cents, you may be privileged to take home one of the many nice prizes that will be given away," said Earl Marland, President of the organization.

Proceeds from this supper will be used to make needed repairs to the Community building and landscape the grounds.

WARRIOR BASIN

by LESLIE ERNENWEIN

© 1959 by Leslie Ernenwein. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

Furlong watched Veto holster his pistol and remembered stories about men being brutally beaten.

Jim Furlong rode through Empire's front gate shortly before noon, a dark, lean-shanked man with lively brown eyes turned tawny by this day's bright sunlight. The scar of an old wound, slanting crescent-shaped across one cheek, gave his face a faint, whimsical expression that was in keeping with his battered Stetson and the bachelor patches in both sleeves of his faded cotton shirt.

Behind him far out on the brush-masked flats of Sick Squaw Creek was a horse camp, direct ahead were the corrals and sheds for the biggest ranch headquarters in Warrior Basin.

And trouble.

There was no way of knowing how much trouble. He had given some thought to this question of whether or not he should wear his pistol on this visit. It had seemed the sensible thing to do, but coming here armed might make the trouble worse. There had been a time when Jim Furlong wouldn't have cared much.

one way or another. That was before he had been reformed by Clee Kimple who had done her best to convince him that fighting violated the Biblical concept of turning the other cheek. Furlong's reformation hadn't reached that point; with one cheek permanently scarred, he saw no sense in offering the other for disfigurement, but he was willing to take reasonable precautions.

He had tossed a coin—a double-eagle that comprised one half his monetary wealth. The gold piece had come up tails, and so his gun was in the blanket roll behind his saddle.

The Empire Ranch spraddled Mexican border for 100 horseback miles. A cattle empire owned by one man—Jules Pardee, who sat on his cottonwood-shaded front gallery, one big broad-shouldered, arrogant man becoming paunchy with age and inactivity. The King of Warrior Basin, Furlong reflected. Empire Ranch controlled the range. Empire lifted the distributed the water, and one wouldn't have cared much.

the transportation for Warrior Basin.

As Furlong saw Clee Veto he thought: The King's Executioner. Veto glanced at him. It was as if the foreman had been attracted briefly by a tumbleweed or a dust fumeroles, something of no importance whatever. If half the stories told about Veto were true, he could shoot or hang a cow-thief in the same impersonal fashion.

It was characteristic of Veto that, even here, he wore his pistol in a thonged, low-slung holster.

Pardee sat with the wooden peg of his right leg propped on the gallery railing. The hickory peg was a memento of an Apache arrow that had caused gangrene 20 years ago. Jules Pardee had been a hero in those days, but now there were men in Warrior Basin who wished the arrow had penetrated his heart.

Pardee motioned toward a cow-hide chair and asked with condescension, "What do you want?"

Furlong came onto the gallery but did not sit down. "One hundred and thirty dollars. For 13 head, seven broke as specified."

"But the job is less than half finished," Pardee objected.

Furlong shook his head. "It's finished as far as I'm concerned. Didn't Veto tell you he fired me?"

A secretive smile altered Pardee's face, bringing a bridge of warmth to his black, shaggy-browed eyes. "Clee claims you got a little uppity with him," Pardee accused.

"Uppity?"

"He says you wouldn't name the two men who left horse tracks across Sick Squaw Creek yesterday. Is that right?"

Furlong nodded. "My contract was to green break thirty broncs, not to inform on trespassers."

"But suppose they were cow thieves?" Pardee insisted.

"Wouldn't you be obligated to tell who they were?"

"If I was on Empire's payroll, yes. But I wasn't just a contract deal. And they weren't cow thieves."

"Then why wouldn't you name them?"

"Because I didn't want Veto pestering them. Veto has a suspicious nature. He might accuse them of doing something they hadn't done."

Pardee thought about that. He frowned in the contemplative, eye-squinted way of a man making an important decision.

Over at the blacksmith shop there was the bell-toned clang of hammer on anvil.

Pardee called sharply: "Clee—come here!"

Veto came out of the blacksmith shop and Pardee said, "My foreman has reason to be suspicious. Cow thieves are nibbling at Empire all the time."

Veto passed the cook and said something to him. The cook's brown and bulky man sized Veto's narrow, shouldered thinness so that the foreman seemed almost fragile in comparison. But this, Furlong understood, was an illusion. Clee Veto was the lethal instrument of Pardee's power.

Veto looked at his employer and said "Yes" in the tone of an obedient servant.

Furlong said those men were not cow thieves. "Clee."

"I didn't ask him that," Veto said in a precise, unemotional voice. "I asked him who they were."

"Sure, sure," Pardee agreed. "But if they weren't cow thieves it's not important. So I'm sending him back to the horse camp."

There was no alteration in Veto's expression and no hint of injured pride in his voice when he said, "All right, Jules."

Pardee looked at his watch and suggested, "You can make it back to the horse camp before dark if you start right now."

"I'm not going back," Furlong said, and watched his refusal register in the face of these two men. They both stared at him, equally surprised, equally indignant, and Pardee asked, "Why not?"

It occurred to Furlong that it was none of their business, and he was tempted to tell them so. But the thought that he would be keeping company with Clee Kimple this evening made him hold his tongue.

"Well, for one thing it's my 28th birthday. Calls for a celebration."

Pardee drew his leg from the railing, he stood up and said impatiently, "Never heard of such foolishness from a grown man. Do you celebrate your birthday every year?"

"No. Never did before, but this one is important."

"Why not?"

"Because I'm going to celebrate it," Furlong said, keeping a straight face.

Pardee peered at him in squinted bafflement, then glanced at Veto and asked, "Does that make sense to you?"

"No," Veto said gravely.

Furlong said, "Pardee commanded, 'Keep your celebrating to one night, hear? Be back tomorrow.'"

When Furlong shook his head, Pardee pivoted around, clumsily and demanded, "Why not?"

"I was taught never to get fired off a job more than once," Furlong said, "Resisting their continued stating," he added, "Look, Pardee, you owe me $130."

Angor stained Pardee's cheeks. "You'll get no money until you finish the job," he insisted.

Furlong looked at Pardee, remembering all the things he had heard about this arrogant man whose wife had left him to live in town with their son, Brent who managed the stage and freight line; whose brother, Alex, once foreman of Empire, had been banished to the Mexican Flat by migration station. A natural-born tyrant.

The calm gravity remained in Veto's face, but no something happened to his milk-bluish eyes; something that gave them a metallic shine.

Veto asked flatly: "Do you understand that nobody runs cattle in the Tailholt Hills without Empire's consent?"

It was Veto's way of reminding Furlong that Empire could accuse any homestead of rustling, and make it stick.

"Well, I've heard it said that a man can run only so much cattle, that he's safe as long as he stays small," Furlong admitted. Then a grin deepened the crescent-shaped scar, and he added, "But it sounds like a lot of hogwash to me."

Veto glanced at Pardee when demanded, "Are you trying to bit off more trouble than you can swallow?"

"A man has a right to say where he'll work, and where he won't work," Furlong announced. Angry, no, he asked, "What's the going price for green broke broncs, range delivery?"

"Thirty dollars," Pardee said.

Furlong took a fumble glance from his pants pocket and placed it on the railing. "There's your change."

"Change for what?"

"For five broncs. I'm going to run off. You owe me $130. Five head comes to $130."

Pardee's face paled, as if from shock. "You hear that, Clee? He is threatening to steal Empire stock!"

"I heard," Veto said, and in the same unemotional tone he ordered: "Stop right there, Furlong."

Furlong looked over his shoulder, saw the gun and stood still.

Veto said, "That's a bad threat to make, mister." He glanced past Furlong and called, "Bronson!" and kept the gun on Furlong as the big cook came across the yard.

"I bounced my britches a plenty earning that money," Furlong said. "I aim to get it, one way or another."

Now, as Bronson came up, Veto ordered, "Hold him."

The cook made a fast tackle. Furlong grabbed him once, before Bronson grabbed him, then, maneuvering Furlong with the agility of an accomplished grappler, Bronson got an arm lock on him from behind.

Furlong watched Veto holster his pistol, and remembered stories about men being brutally beaten for trivial offenses against Empire. Farmers, mostly, meek men who wouldn't fight back. Men who turned the other cheek.

He said, "I'm no sod buster, Veto. Next time I'll have a gun."

There was no reaction from any of them. Bronson held him tight, clamped. Pardee watched with seeming disinterest. Veto took a pair of buckskin gloves from his hip pocket, deliberate in the way he worked his fingers into the snug-fitting leather. Moving without haste he stepped close to Furlong and hit him with a shopping right that perked a strip of skin from cheekbone to chin. The other cheek.

"nothing can be done."

The NAACP has shown no interest in compromise, he said, adding:

"Its aim as it has repeatedly stated, is complete and total integration."

Local NAACP officials could not be reached for comment.

Faubus said he could open the schools simply by getting aside his proclamation that closed them.

A 1958 state legislative bill that would have provided for automatic opening of the schools next fall was vetoed by the governor last week.

That bill confused the issue, he said. "I made no provision for the possibility that things might be worked out once a school is closed to enable a quick reopening. Under that bill you would have to wait until next fall."

Some 3,700 students were displaced by the school closings. Most of them have enrolled in other public or private institutions.

Insurance Man Dies at Conway

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—Guy Raymond Farris, former president of the Arkansas Assn. of Insurance Agents, died last night at his home.

Farris, 72, had been ill about two years.

A resident of Conway since 1910, he served as a member of the Arkansas Mercantile Council in 1940-42 and was a veteran of World War I.

Survivors include his wife, four sons, two sisters and two brothers.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at the First Methodist Church here.

Population in State Gained, U. S. Insists

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A gain in Arkansas population from 1957 to 1958 was reported by the U. S. Census Bureau yesterday, in conflict with U. S. Census Bureau findings.

A University official said the difference in figures was not large but indicated a near halt in net migration out of Arkansas in 1958. "Use of newer data in calculation was cited for the variance."

The university report said the state gained 10,000 persons; from 1,771,000 in 1957 to 1,808,000 in 1958.

The Census Bureau said 14,000 persons left during that period, decreasing the population from 1,780,000 to 1,766,000 in 1958.

There is a difference of 21,000 in the estimates.

Prof. Phillips H. Brown quoted the university figures in an article in the latest issue of the Arkansas Economist, a magazine published by the school's Industrial Research and Extension Center, and Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

"The data we used in our calculations is more current than those used by the Census Bureau," said Dr. John M. Peterson, associate director of the Research and Extension Center. "They used projections of past trends in figuring migration—and migration is the big factor—and we used current school enrollment figures."

Peterson said both agencies use the same method of estimating population—by using the 10-year census as a base figure, subtracting the deaths from births, and computing migration by comparing school enrollment figures.

"The Census Bureau will come out with a revised estimate in October," he said, "and by using

Four Year Terms Are Ruled Out

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Attorney General Bruce Bennett yesterday ruled unconstitutional a new state law that set up four-year terms for elected city officials in North Little Rock.

The law violates Amendment 14 to the state constitution, which bars the Legislature from passing local or special acts, Bennett said.

The first election under the new later enrollment figures I feel sure they will raise their estimate then. But I don't know how close they will be to us."

Peterson also said he believes Arkansas' population will increase in the next few years, but not at the pace of the national increase.

News Briefs

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—M. S. Callahan of Bytheville yesterday filed a claim of $25,000 with the state Claims Commission for the death of her son, Cecil Preston, 17, in a fire at the state Negro Boys Industrial School at Wrightsville. It was the thirteenth claim filed as a result of the dormitory blaze which killed 21 boys March 5.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $20,000 grant to Gould, Ark., to help finance a 100,000 sewage disposal project was announced yesterday by the Public Health Service.

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Twenty persons were killed and 11 seriously injured when a bus plunged down a 400-foot ravine in mountainous West Pakistan Sunday.

The driver said he lost control of the bus while rounding a curve.

BRUNSWICK, Germany (AP)—Taken by surprise, Communist border guards failed to stop an East German family of ten from crashing through the Iron Curtain in a seven-ton truck.

Friedrich Giese, 47, said he and his wife and eight children, aged 2 to 13, left East Germany for political and economic reasons.

Giese was not halted when he approached the frontier as his truck had a special permit for the area. The guards were caught off balance when the vehicle crashed through the barbed wire fence separating the two halves of Germany.

law was scheduled for next year. The act applies only to cities of 50,000 or more population having a mayor-council form of government and North Little Rock is the only one affected.

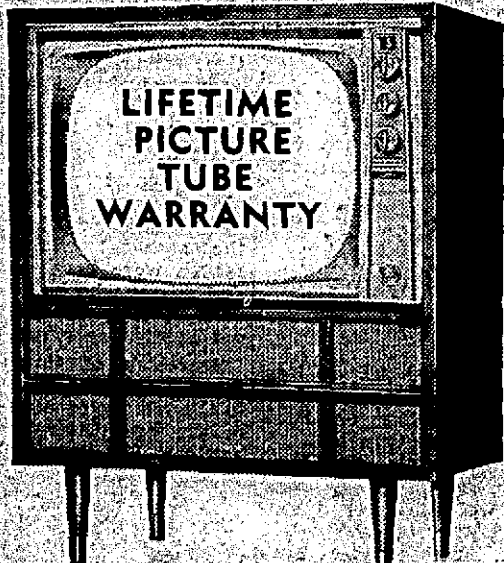

Bennett's whose opinion is final unless a trial court overrules him, said he expected someone may bring a suit to test the law.

Fuller - Reynard Wedding Solemnized

On Sunday, April 5, Miss Dorcas Carline Fuller and Alvin H. Reynard, both of Hope, Ark., were united in marriage by Rev. J. B. Kinkadee, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Hope. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fuller of Hope and the groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reynard.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. John McClanahan, before a chancel decorated with baskets of white flowers. A program of beautiful musical numbers was furnished by the organist, Mrs. H. A. Spraggins. Entering the sanctuary on the arm of her father, the bride wore a ballerina length dress of white chanel lace over tulle. It was fashioned with a scoop neckline edged in seed pearls, long sleeves and a full skirt. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a coronet of seed pearls, and she carried a white Bible on which she pinned a white orchid.

Miss Mary Sanford was the maid of honor. She wore a street-length frock of blue which had an embroidered bodice and a pleated skirt. Her bouquet was pink carnations.

Attendant Don Fuller, brother of the bride, was the groom's best man. Ushers were Abram Slaggs and Gerald Yocom.

For the wedding, Mrs. Fuller, mother of the bride, wore a beige two piece dress with brown accessories and an orchid corsage.

A small reception at the home of the bride's parents was held for relatives and a few close friends immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was overlaid with a cloth of lace and centered with an arrangement of spring flowers. Miss Catherine Dol Vecchio served the tiered wedding cake, while Miss Jo Ann Slaggs presided at the punch bowl.

When the newlyweds left for a short trip, Mrs. Reynard was attended in a sheath dress of pink cotton. She had white accessories and pinned the orchid from her bouquet at her shoulder.

Upon their return, they will be at home in Oklahoma City, Okla. Out of town guests at the ceremony were Mrs. Maude Major of Little Rock, Mr. and Mrs. Jewell Shields of Malvern, Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Brown of Ft. Pleasant, Tex.; and Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Betts of Ft. Worth.

Dear Amy: This is a well-known axiom used by the clergy to keep the unwary. All religious rules, rituals, tradition, bride's control lights and anyone else concerned in a wedding agree that practically all expenses are the obligation of the bride's family. If the bride's people balk at paying bills, the young folks can settle for a simple ceremony. They'll be just as married as if they had had a reception for 500 and a brass band.

Pirates Checking Sore Arm of Young Hurler

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Want a new line on Pittsburgh's long-lamented chances for the National League pennant? Then get those exhibition game line-ups and check an ear for the medical report on George Will's troublesome arm.

The young right-hander, a pitching sensation as a rookie last season when he shrugged off arm trouble and won seven straight for the longest string of the year in the NL, was sent on to Pittsburgh Monday night for an examination by the club's physician.

The trouble centers in a painful elbow, which the freckle-faced youngster said was strained when he tried to develop a slider two years ago in the minors. The trouble popped up again Monday and Will was forced from the mound after one inning as the Pirates finished their stay in Florida with a 2-1 victory over Kansas City at Fort Myers.

In other games, the San Francisco Giants, figured to join the Bucs in the National League pennant pursuit, went 11 innings before beating Cleveland 8-6 on Don Tassig's home run. The Boston Red Sox belted the Chicago Cubs 11-3, the Detroit Tigers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 7-2, the Chicago White Sox beat Washington 9-6, Spokane defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2, and Cincinnati slacked Savannah 12-2.

Harvey Haddix, Ron Blackburn and Fred Green took charge of the pitching after Will's quick exit and kept the A's blanked until the ninth as the Pirates won their fourth in a row for a 15-12 spring record. Blackburn, working in his first game since returning from service, was the winner as Roman Majors squeezed in the winning run in the seventh inning. Tassig's two-run shot off loser Hal Woodeshick was one of five home runs by the Giants at Tampa. Curt Barclay won it after Minnie Minoso's 10th-inning homer his fourth hit, tied it for the Tribe.

The Red Sox socked four Cubs pitchers for 15 hits, handing Joe Schefferson the loss in a five-run fifth. Ike Delock won it, finally coming around with a two-hit, one-run job in his six innings at Corpus Christi.

Detroit picked on Card ace Larry Jackson for five runs in three innings at Lakeland, Fla. Frank Lary won it, giving up one run in his five innings.

Rookie Norm Cash hit a two-run homer in the fifth that brought the White Sox from behind, then counted two runs with a triple in the ninth at Charlotte. Turk Lowe won it in relief of Early Wynn, who went seven.

Fishing Conditions Around Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Here is an Arkansas fishing forecast from the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission.

Lake Ouachita: Water dingy. Bass and crappie fair on artificial bait and minnows.

The American naval hero, John Paul Jones, died practically unnoticed in Paris in 1792. He was buried in the St. Louis Cemetery for Protestants. More than 100 years later, Ambassador Horace Porter of the United States searched for and found his remains. They were brought to the United States on a U.S. warship and are now entombed in the chapel of the Naval Academy in Annapolis.

Lakers Will Go All Out to Halt Celtics

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minneapolis Lakers are ready to gamble on a baseball pitcher tonight to chill the hottest pinch hitter in pro basketball, Boston's Frank Ramsey.

The teams resume the National Basketball Assn.'s best four-of-seven final playoffs in the St. Paul Auditorium with the Celtics leading two games to none.

Coach Johnny Kundla of Lakers said he plans to give 6-foot-4 rookie Steve Hamilton, a long-term bench rider most of the season, a crack at stopping the sizzling Mr. Ramsey.

"When they send Ramsey in to troubleshoot for them I'll probably have Hamilton in there sooner or later," said coach Kundla.

Hamilton, who played college basketball at Morehead, Ky., is a southpaw pitcher in the Cleveland Indians chain. He had a 17-14 record with Burlington, N.C., in the class B Carolina League last year.

None of the Laker regulars has had much luck with Ramsey, the game-breaking Celtic reserve who has hit 14 of 30 shots and 49 points in 50 minutes of play against the Lakers.

Unless they win this one the Lakers can kiss the series goodbye. Beaten twice in Boston, they can't afford to lose a home game and still retain much hope of winning the title.

DOGS

COLORS IN DOGS

By FARLEY MANNING

Colors are fashionable this year the automobile designers are emphasizing but they have always been fashionable in dogs. Mildly can match or contrast her car or costume with a dog of almost any color of her choice except green pink, purple or say shocking pink from among the 100 odd breeds and varieties of purebred canines that are nowadays fancied in the United States.

There is almost the whole gamut of blues, for example, ranging from the deep tone that is black when a Kerry Blue Terrier is a pup to the pale lavender that gives some Poodles or the Yorkshires their steely sheen. Reds run from the warm glowing mahogany of the Irish Setter or the Deep cherries found in certain other breeds through the fawns to the lightly tinted golds. Some dogs are silver. There are all of the grays. Some whites glisten and some are mat blacks come in all of black's intensities; browns and and yellows in their infinite variations from deep rust to light tan. There are roans and grizzles and many dogs in combinations of two tones or colors or even three.

But if a dog's beauty and bloom of coat and coloration are to be realized fully there are certain things to be remembered.

First the dog's ancestors must be chosen with care. A luxurious coat like baldness is hereditary.

And just as a child's hair may grow darker or lighter as the child grows older until the shade characteristic of his ancestry is reached so may a dog's.

Next a healthy coat both texture and bloom of the hair is attained only on a healthy animal. The dog must be properly fed. It must be kept free of parasites and disease. And it must be kept clean and decently trimmed and well

Heavyweight Fight Goes to Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Promoter Cecil Rhodes Jr. declares here today, pending to tie together his loose ends after suddenly switching the May 1 heavyweight title bout between champion Floyd Patterson and England's Brian London from Las Vegas to Indianapolis.

Rhodes, a Cranford, N.J., industrialist promoting his first fight, announced the switch in sites Monday, contending he wanted to escape rumors of gamblers' backing.

The new site of the fight, first title bout in Indiana boxing history, is the State Fair Grounds Coliseum which seats about 13,500.

Rhodes, a 34-year-old Harvard law graduate, said there weren't any gamblers backing the Las Vegas. New fight, but added: "I don't want that kind of implication."

In Las Vegas, civic leaders said the real reason was because "resort operators refused to give the financial support requested by the fight promoter."

Patterson is scheduled to arrive here late next week and train in the Coliseum. London also is expected to arrive next week.

Reports Kurds Being Shipped Into Iraq

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Reports that Soviet Kurds are being shipped through the Suez Canal to Iraq aroused speculation today that the Soviet Union is helping Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem form a pro-Communist Foreign Legion.

Egyptian authorities said three Soviet ships—one carrying 555 fully armed Kurds and the other two loaded with military equipment—passed through the canal Sunday bound for Iraq's big Persian Gulf port of Basra.

The Kurds, though not Arabs, are scattered through Arab regions as well as into the Soviet Union and make up one million of Iraq's 6 million people. Many have long dreamed of carving out their own nation of the areas of northern Iraq, western Iran and eastern Turkey which they inhabit.

Observers at Port Said reported the tribesmen passing through the canal were Soviet citizens of Kurdish origin from the southernmost regions of the Soviet Union. The United Arab Republic's Middle East News Agency said the Soviet Kurds were trained in guerrilla fighting.

The agency without giving a source, said more Soviet ships carrying Kurds are expected to arrive in Port Said on route to Iraq.

There was no foreign confirmation of the Egyptian reports. Kassem has been waging a bitter campaign against Kassem, accusing the Iraqi Premier of letting the Communists get the upper hand in Iraq. Kassem, with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev seconding him, has blamed Kassem for the recent unsuccessful army revolt in north Iraq.

Only a week ago Kassem hinted he might grant the Iraqi Kurds self-government as a move that would meet with favor in Moscow.

The Communist-trained Kurds could form the nucleus of foreign legion units which the Egyptian press said Kassem is forming. Cairo papers said their mission is to oppose Arab nationalists in Iraq who want to swing their country closer to the U.A.R. and President Nasser and who are against the growing Communist influence in Baghdad.

The 1,030-ton Soviet ship Gruzia carrying the Kurd tribesmen was closely guarded during a brief stop at Port Said Monday. Officials said they had difficulty getting ahead to make a routine check.

Egyptian authorities said the Gruzia, which came from the Soviet Black Sea port of Odessa, appeared bound for Basra but her papers listed her destination as the Far East.

Another Soviet ship, the Nikita Khrushchev, loaded with 9,000 tons of military equipment, also passed through the canal Monday for Basra. The Middle East News Agency said the ship was carrying arms for Iraq, moved through on Sunday night, the agency said.

AP correspondent Stan Carter reported from Baghdad—in a dispatch through censorship—that Kassem predicted three months ago, "we shall have a tremendous revolution in the state machinery this month."

Carter said the revolutionary leader did not elaborate on his remark made at a Hungarian Embassy reception. But it aroused speculation that such development projects as dam and road building and other construction work which Western companies have been carrying on for Iraq might be turned over to the direction of Soviet experts.

GOPs Looking Over Party Chief Prospect

WASHINGTON (AP)—Conservative Republicans were reported urging Postmaster Arthur E. Bennett Summerfield today to seek the GOP national chairmanship.

The party's National Committee, meeting here Friday and Saturday, will name a successor to Meno Alcorn, who is resigning to return to his private law practice.

The committee also may vote to hold the GOP presidential nominating convention in Chicago in the week beginning July 25, 1960. A site subcommittee, headed by State Chairman Ray Bliss of Ohio, meets here Wednesday. It is understood to have such a recommendation in mind.

Summerfield's name was injected into speculation over the chairmanship after it had appeared that Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky might have no serious opposition for the post.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Rep. Richard M. Simpson of Pennsylvania, chairman of the GOP campaign committee of the two houses of Congress, have objected publicly that Morton could devote only part time to the committee chairmanship because of his senatorial duties.

He said that he understood how to be among those who would find the party's chief acceptable for the post. He said his cabinet charges, the postmaster's general, was not immediately available for comment on whether he would agree to accept. He held the job for six months in 1952 and quit when he entered the Cabinet. Summerfield has maintained close relations with the party's conservatives although he left the Taft wing to throw vital support to President Eisenhower in 1952.

Americans May Not Be Getting Enough News

NEW YORK (AP)—Americans may not be getting all the information they need in these crucial times, according to a majority of a television panel of experts on the subject.

The five panelists, including presidential press secretary James G. Hagerty, appeared Sunday on the Columbia Broadcasting System's "The Great Challenge."

They were asked if the public is getting the information it needs. Only one panelist—a newspaper publisher—answered with a definite "yes."

Hagerty, the source of much of the information coming out of the administration, drew a chuckle from the audience in the auditorium when he answered: "I hope so, but I'm not sure."

He acknowledged that some government officials tend to be "stamp happy and put confidential" or "top secret" on documents that should not be. He added that "as far as the White House is concerned, I honestly try, under the directive of the President, to get out as much information as we can on the dealings of the government of the United States."

Hagerty said the directive from President Eisenhower he referred to is one of the following in releasing defense information to the press. He said it goes like this: "If it does not deal with the security of the United States, and if it does not deal with related problems of the military or intelligence or some of our diplomatic exchanges, he believes this should be public information."

The panelist who believes Americans are getting enough news was Charles A. Sprague, publisher of the Salem, Ore., Statesman and former governor of Oregon.

"The quantity is there," he said, and "our newsmen and hand-drawers are more competent and more fair than ever before in handling of the news."

He agreed, however, that there is a need for better trained reporters and editors, to make complex subjects more understandable.

Appearing with Hagerty and Sprague were James Reston, Washington correspondent of the New York Times; Robert D. Swazey, executive vice-president and general manager of WDSU Broadcasting Corp. in New Orleans; and Arthur H. Schlesinger Jr., Harvard history professor and Eric Sevareid of CBS was moderator.

Reston said there are a great many complaints from editors, scientists, and members of Congress about withholding of news by the government.

Schlesinger said that he thinks the risk an American newsmen runs of losing his passport by going to Red China is an unnecessary obstacle to news. He added he also believes there are unnecessary obstacles in getting information on nuclear fallout and the detection of atomic tests.

Swazey said there is insufficient information on defense budgets and complained about contradictory statements from different areas of government concerning the missile lag.

Says Russia Creates Hostility Atmosphere

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has told the Soviet Union it creates an "atmosphere of hostility" by accusing U.S. air planes of violating Soviet air space when actually they were over open seas.

The State Department today released the text of a note sent to the Soviet Union March 25. It is the latest of a series concerning air incidents over the Baltic Sea and the Sea of Japan Nov. 7 and 8 last year.

The U.S. note replied to a Soviet note of March 5 which reiterated the Soviet position that American military planes had approached the Soviet border "with hostile aims" and "fired on a Soviet fighter."

The Soviet government, the United States replied, "must be fully aware that no violations of Soviet airspace were involved in these incidents in any way."

The note repeated that no American aircraft had fired in the course of these incidents.

David Niven, Miss Hayward Win Oscars

By JAMES BACON
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Susan Hayward, who once despaired of ever winning an Oscar, got one on her fifth try Monday night. So did David Niven, after 25 years of pleasing movie audiences.

The Brooklyn-born, redhead and the dobeater Scotsman won the top Academy Awards for acting before an audience filled with most of the big names in the entertainment industry. They shared honors with the movie "Gigi," which won in every one of the nine categories for which it was nominated—including best picture.

Rufus Livo and the British actress Wendy Hiller won Oscars for best supporting performances.

More than 100 big names—from Ingrid Bergman to Eddie Fisher—gave a nationwide television audience an electronic peek at Hollywood's biggest night of the year. The acceptance speeches were an effort that the NBC-TV show ended some 20 minutes before its two-hour schedule.

Miss Hayward enacted the role of murderer Barbara Graham in "I Want To Live."

While the picture was being made, she told a reporter that "after four disappointments I'm no longer in the business for Oscars. Just say that I do it now for the money and the joy of doing a good job."

She admitted that Monday night's results have changed her views considerably.

"I thought I had a good chance but I was pleasantly surprised," she said. "And above all thrilled and honored."

Niven won the top actor award for playing a pathetic woman-molester in "Separate Tables." It was one of the few times in his career that he did not play what the trade calls "a David Niven type."

Niven said: "Damn it, I must say I wanted to win and I'm happy I did."

"Gigi" got Oscars for best picture, best screen play based on material from another medium, best directing for Vincente Minnelli, best art direction, best color photography, best song (the title number), film editing, costume design and best scoring of a musical picture. The music for "Gigi" was written by the "My Fair Lady" team of Frederick Loewe and Alan J. Lerner.

Lerner also got the award for the best screenplay for "Gigi."

Ives, the 300-pound folk singer, took a night off from his show at Las Vegas Flamingo Hotel to pick up his Oscar. He played a sort of Western Big Daddy in "The Big Country."

Miss Hiller was not in town to receive her award. Earlier she told a reporter by long distance phone from London that she couldn't understand how she ever got nominated. She played the Lovelorn hotel manager of "Separate Tables."

"All you could see of me in the picture," she said, "was the back of my head. Unless they give some award for acting with one's back to the camera, I don't stand a chance."

The fast pace of the proceedings, with the consequent time left over, caught everyone off guard. Em-

News Briefs

DETROIT (AP)—A report of heavy smoke billowing from the rear of a West Side Detroit home Sunday night caused a fire alarm to be sounded.

The firefighters found a fire in the rear of the home, grilling hotdogs and hamburgers on a portable grill.

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—While nearly a score of officers and detectives slept, two masked gunmen robbed the Albany Hotel of an estimated $500 in cash early Sunday.

The hotel is the convention site for the Colorado Police Protective Assn.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—More attention to the party platform and more counsel with fellow Democrats was demanded of Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) by Texas Young Democrats Sunday.

At the closing session of their state convention, the Young Democrats adopted a resolution to that effect, drafted by Jack Matthews of Houston. The vote was 209-73.

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—A moderate earthquake jarred a section of coastal northern California for two minutes Sunday night. No damage was reported.

The University of California seismograph registered the tremor starting at 10:08:50 p.m. and placed its epicenter 155 miles northwest of the San Francisco Bay area.

This corresponded to the Redwood Valley in Mendocino County from where most calls came from residents.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, (AP)—Jerry Lewis panicked and tried some stalling tactics which appeared inept.

Nobody seemed to know whose fault it was. Academy President George Stevens merely remarked: "The show went so smoothly that we had time left over."

He didn't explain why performers and winners were told to hurry up their parts during the performance.
